

Andrew T. Walker is the Senior Fellow in Christian Ethics at the Ethics & Religious Liberty Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention, the denomination's entity tasked with equipping Christians and local churches to address ethical issues facing society and the church. He is also an Assistant Professor of Christian Ethics and Apologetics at The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. Passionate about equipping Christians understand the moral demands of the gospel, in his role at the ERLC and Southern Seminary, he researches, writes, and teaches about the intersection of Christian ethics, public policy, and the church's social witness.

His writing and commentary have appeared in such outlets as National Review, Public Discourse, The Gospel Coalition, and elsewhere. He also serves as the Director of the ERLC's Research Institute. He is the co-author of Marriage Is: How Marriage Transforms Society and Cultivates Human Flourishing. Andrew is the editor alongside Russell Moore of the Gospel for Life series. He is the co-author of the First Freedom Religious Liberty small group curriculum published through LifeWay. His most recent book is God and the Transgender Debate.

He has a Bachelor of Arts degree in Religious Studies from Southwest Baptist University. He received his Master of Divinity, Master of Theology, and Doctor of Philosophy in Christian Ethics from The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, KY. An avid long-distance runner, Andrew resides in Franklin, Tennessee with wife and three daughters.